

Within the porous boundary

The project through the intrinsic search for the concept of the porous limit from the fragmentation of the mass for the contemplation of the landscape.

It highlights the importance of the recovery of the docks, as an important connection link with the natural and the artificial, in this way, the project is a connecting node to natural urban life.

The project is a gastronomic market that allows to give order to the chaos of the fishing trade in the area, and, in turn, breaks social limits, creating spaces to congregate, contemplate, recreate and rest on the banks of the landscape of the Magdalena River.

The conceptual development was of great importance to understand and create an architectural relationship that would allow the creation of multiple atmospheres, all of which prevail towards the public, in order to stimulate the sensory senses and have experiences that last over time.
